

HEALTH CARE

ON THE HORIZON

FOCUSING ON SOLUTIONS TO HEALTH CARE CONDITIONS AND ISSUES... NOW AND INTO THE FUTURE

Along with having a lifelong personal interest in health and wellness, Jeff Ostroff spent much of his first career working for or with numerous health care organizations. These include Medicare, the VA health care system, hospitals, home health agencies, private insurers, and health care associations. It was this background—and a fascination with trends and the future—that led Jeff to create the Health Care on the Horizon show.

Health Care on the Horizon (HCH) is focused on where things stand now with specific health conditions, and with other challenges faced by consumers and the medical community. More importantly, HCH looks at advances being made to address these conditions and challenges.

Like its sister podcast, “Looking Forward: Opportunities for Job, Career, Business, and Investment Seekers,” Health Care on the Horizon also takes a glimpse into the future—in this case, to provide news about possible breakthroughs “down the road,” which are related to the various conditions and challenges the show covers.

HCH’s goals are to (1) help you learn more about some of the key challenges and issues facing the health care system today and (2) increase your awareness of the efforts being made right now to improve or eradicate those. Hopefully, you’ll find the information presented to be useful not only in an educational sense, but perhaps in a more personal way, so that it might benefit you, a loved one, or a friend.
